7th International Folk Lore Film Festival, Thrissur 2024

Seetha V S
Festival Director

Folk lore has become a very important field of study today. There was a group of people among us who believed that folk meant superstitions. Maybe it still is. But we have come to the realization that they are not the superstitions, they are living cultures that have been followed by every people for centuries.

These customs and beliefs, which have survived to this day, are the necessary elements for the cohesion and survival of every society. Folklore follows the transmission and preservation of traditional knowledge. All over the world such traditional knowledge is transmitted. They exist as songs, arts, ecological and social heritages and signs.

In earlier times there were no means of properly recording such traditional knowledge. All of them were word of mouth. But when there was an opportunity to preserve it as video documents, it also paved the way for the preservation of folklore. Different folk cultures started appearing on screens as documentaries, docu-fiction and movies.

Folk lore is alive and well today, with debates about territoriality and the need to preserve local knowledge, arts, etc. More than two thousand entries from different countries to the 7th International Folk Lore Film Festival are examples of that.

About thirty films by Iranian women directors are screened in this festival. The films of these women directors are proof that oppressed and exploited people can rise up stronger and share their ideas.

In the Indian panorama section, there are pictures full of culture, arts and life, in the country focus section there are different pictures from France, Brazil, Spain, Turkey, Portugal, South Africa, Germany, China, Morocco, Philippines, Italy, Egypt and more than two hundred pictures that mark the cultural diversity, life and arts of different countries. Screening at the film festival.

Each of the pictures will be a mirror to the cultural diversity of different countries and the marginalized people's lives.

All are cordially invited to this Folk Lore Film Festival from 5th to 10th January 2024.
